Crash Near Willard Claims Life of Kentuckian

2 Others Injured In Mishap

Holiday Death Toll Mounts

The first holiday traffic fatality in the Mansfield area claimed the life today of Claude Conley, 39, of Garrett, Ky. Conley died at Willard Municipal hospital at 6 a. m. after a crash at the intersection of U. S. Route 61 and 194 near Willard.

With the holiday traffic beginning to fill the highways, a total of 32 deaths had been reported over the nation at noon today.

Among the injured as a result of traffic mishaps was Daniel Terry, 36, also of Garrett, Ky., a passenger in the same auto as Conley. He is in critical condition at the Willard hospital with back and head injuries.

A third occupant of the car, Robert Robinson, 63, of Garrett, was treated for minor injuries and released.

TWO MORE INJURED

Two Shelby residents were injured in a collision last night on State Route 61, two miles south of Shelby. They were Miss Dorothy Garner, 29, and Robert L. Dennis, 21. Miss Garner is in Memorial hospital in Shelby with a cut knee and possible rib fractures.

State highway patrolmen from Bellevue identified the drivers in the crash near Willard as George Robinson, 44, of 25 Hayes street, Willard, and Robert A. Garner, 28, of Shelby. The Kentuckians, visiting Robinson, were riding in his car. Garner was unhurt.

Authorities arrested Robinson on a charge of failing to yield the right-of-way.

Highway patrolmen reported the collision near Shelby was between cars driven by Dennis and Woodrow W. Garner, 33, of Shelby, brother of Miss Garner.

The summer's biggest outpouring on the country's highways today was getting into full swing for the extended weekend. Some 3,000,000 cars are expected to be on the highways going to vacation lands and resorts, the National Safety Council estimated.

The Council also estimated 290 persons will be killed in traffic accidents over the three-day period. The toll of last year's holiday was more than 500 with nearly 300 traffic fatalities.

Push Legion Fire Probe

Investigation of the Richland Post 72, American Legion fire Thursday morning was continued today by the state fire marshal's office and Mansfield detectives, Fire Chief L. J. Steele said. No arrests have been made.

The chief said he would take no part in the investigation.

"The Mansfield fire department established it was arson," the chief said, "and the investigation is being conducted by trained investigators."

The fire, which destroyed all furnishings and a major portion of the second-floor rooms at 217½ North Diamond street, is believed to have been started by a liquid resembling turpentine.

Samples from bottles containing the liquid found at the scene were taken by the state fire marshal's investigators for analysis.

Firemen from Central and No. 2 stations answered the call to the Legion post at 2:35 a. m. Thursday. The building was unoccupied when firemen arrived.

Farm Group Blasts New 'Brannan' Plan

WASHINGTON — (INS) — A major farm organization denounced the so-called Brannan plan today as a political proproposal and called instead for slight changes in the Republican Aiken-Hope bill.

Directors of the powerful American Farm Bureau federation took this stand in backing up concerted opposition by top AFBF officers since Agriculture Secretary Brannan outlined his production payment proposals last April 7.

Dimitrov Succumbs

Was Bulgarian Red Premier

LONDON — (UP) — Georgi Dimitrov, 66, premier of Bulgaria, onetime head of the old communist international, and the No. 1 communist of the Balkans, died today of diabetes at a sanitarium near Moscow.

The Moscow radio announced the death of Dimitrov after an illness of several months. His ailment forced him to give up his duties as Bulgarian premier on April 14, when he went to Russia, his former homeland by adoption, for treatment.

The central committee of the Russian communist party and the Soviet council of ministers announced "with profound regret" the death of Dimitrov.

The formal statement broadcast from Moscow hailed him as "the outstanding leader of the international working class movement, chairman of the council of ministers of the Bulgarian People's republic, general secretary of the central committee of the Bulgarian communist party."

He died, the Soviet statement said, at the Bordikha sanitarium near Moscow after a long and serious liver ailment described a diabetes.

Heat Stays For Holiday

It will be a hot, humid holiday week end with scattered thundershowers probable.

That's the weatherman's forecast for the next two days.

After a slight cooling-off last night, the mercury started climbing again today and was expected to top 90 degrees over the entire state. Mansfield's high yesterday was 88 and the low last night was 68.

It was cool here, however, as compared with some cities in the middlewest. Kansas City reported a high of 100 and Chicago had a 99 reading. It was 93 in Cincinnati and 92 in Cleveland.

Although Cincinnati's high for the day was only 92, three persons succumbed to the heat in that city.

Expected relief from the Pacific Northwest has failed to materialize, according to Forecaster A. S. Klemetsmo, and no other alleviation can be expected until the middle of next week.

Klemetsmo said some coastal cities probably will benefit in lower temperatures from an off-the-lake breeze, but that inland communities can expect no relief whatsoever.

The forecaster added that temperatures probably will reach the 90-mark every day of the long Fourth of July week end.

18 Perish In Plane Crash

PERTH, Australia — (UP) — A DC-3 airliner crashed and burned in the middle of housing project today, killing all 14 passengers and four crewmen.

The crash occurred only a mile from Guildford airdrome, from which the plane had just taken off for Darwin. Families in the housing settlement fled their homes and a number had narrow escapes from death or injury.

Witnesses said one of the plane's two engines cut out as the machine took off on a rain-swept runway. Firemen were unable to reach the passengers and all perished in the flames.

McCloy Reaches Berlin

Will Follow 'Firm' Policy

BERLIN —(UP)— John J. McCloy, new boss of the American zone of Germany, flew to Berlin today with a promise to continue the policies of his predecessor, Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

He came here to assume formally his new duties as American military governor in Germany. After the formation of the new western German republic following the Aug. 14 elections, he will become America's first high commissioner for Germany.

McCloy reviewed troops with Lt. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner, U. S. Army commander in Germany.

Then he turned to newsmen and assured them in a brief interview:

"There will be no change in our policy."

WILL REMAIN FIRM

Newsmen took that as an indication that McCloy will follow Clay's policy of firmness in dealing with Russians. This policy was believed to have led to the Soviet decision to lift the Berlin blockade and propose the recent big four conference in Paris.

McCloy said he would maintain a headquarters in Berlin, at least until a west German government has been established.

"Then we will see about further possibiilties."

One of the biggest tasks confronting McCloy, quite apart from his relations with the Russians in the east-west cold war, is reconciling the powers retained by the western allies under the occupation statute with German demands for self-rule.

McCloy left a $30,000-a-year, tax-free job as president of the World bank to come to Germany for a $25,000 job subject to income tax.

A former lawyer and financial expert, he was a war-time assistant secretary of war. He became president of the World bank in February 1947, but resigned earlier this year to take the German post.

Truman Sails Along Potomac For Holiday

WASHINGTON — (INS) — President Truman is scheduled to leave Washington today for a July 4 weekend cruise aboard the presidential yacht Williamsburg.

The President's daughter, Margaret, and two of her friends, Miss Drucie Snyder, daughter of the secretary of the treasury, and Miss Jane Lingo, daughter of a naval officer, will be aboard.

The Williamsburg will anchor off the mouth of the St. Mary's river this evening. The presidential party will return to Washington late Monday afternoon.

Mr. Truman will spend a part of the cruise working on the economic message he will send to Congress shortly. None of the President's staff is scheduled to accompany him.

CHINESE WAIF ADOPTED—Culminating four years' effort, ex-GI Frank Chisari hugs Ann, 6-year-old Chinese girl whose life he saved in China, on her arrival to make her home with him in New York. Mrs. Chisari looks on, pleased. They have two other children, Adeline, 6, and John 2. In June, 1946, Radarman Chisari stopped his jeep for a passing train near Kunming, China. There was a splash in a rice paddy nearby. Body of a young woman was fished out. Then a bundle was found on the train track after the train passed. In it was a baby, Ann, bleeding from a severe slash on right side of her cheek and throat. After she was treated Chisari nursed her back to health. Later she was placed in an orphanage. It took him four years to save enough to try to bring her to the U. S. (International Soundphoto).

Eye Second Street Building

Study New Site For Detention Home

Another detention home site for Richland county is under consideration today by the county commissioners, Judge Stuart H. Cramer said

Judge Cramer and Commissioner Fred Dill have inspected an East Second street building as a possible home for the care of juvenile delinquents.

Yesterday Guy L. Stewart, county commission chairman, said the state fire marshal prohibited use of the third floor of the Children's home on Hedges street as a detention home. The marshal termed the entire building "especially liable to fire and a hazard to life and safety."

Judge Cramer previously had asked the commissioners to consider the home as a possibility. He said today that he came to the conclusion in May that it would not be safe to use the home.

The Children's home plan also was turned down by the Richland County Child Welfare board. Its executive secretary, George W. Reece, said the board was on record as "not being in favor of the proposal."

He explained there were too many "negative approaches to the children's home location."

AMPLE SPACE

"The Second street property would be serviceable," the judge said. "It has a nice enclosed back yard and ample space for quarters for a superintendent and a matron."

Judge Cramer said he thought there was room in the structure to house the required number of children.

"The detention home is still very much needed" he said. He explained that it was imperative that there be some place to house juvenile delinquents soon.

Several juveniles recently have had to stay in the city jail until more suitable quarters could be found. In a recent case a youngster was assigned to the custody of a relative until he can be accepted in the Bureau of Juvenile Research in Columbus about the middle of the month.

Judge Cramer has suggested that certain specialized foster homes might be used to keep the children. The plan is working satisfactorily in other counties. The county, under this plan, pays a monthly fee for the use of the home, plus fees for board and room.

Asks 7-Hour Mine Day

WASHINGTON — (UP) — John L. Lewis has demanded that soft coal operators reduce his miners' work day from eight to seven hours without cutting their present take-home pay, industry sources said today.

This, they said, was the only specific money demand Lewis made during closed recent negotiations between the United Mine Workers and soft coal producers at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

These sources said, however, that Lewis notified them he also wants a general hourly wage increase, bigger operator contributions to the welfare and retirement fund and establishment of the industry's first job seniority system.

The operators said they countered by telling Lewis the industry cannot afford any contract improvement which will increase production costs of coal. So far, they themselves have not made any specific contract proposals

Took Pride In Garden Work

Death Claims Aaron Cole At Age of 94

Death last night brought to an end the colorful career of Aaron Cole, 94, at his home in Mifflin.

Mr. Cole, who retired from active farming 25 years ago, continued his work on a smaller scale by gardening until this year. An active man for his greatly advanced age, Mr. Cole took an immense pride in his garden activities.

One of his daughters, Miss Bess Cole, is chief operator for the Mifflin-Widowville Telephone company. A native of Pennsylvania, Mr. Cole came to Ohio as a child when his parents moved to Richland county to engage in farming.

Mr. Cole often recalled the growth of Mifflin and recounted tales of the community when it was known as Petersburg and boasted numerous saloons. During his farming years mechanized farming was unheard of and he was a staunch supporter of horses.

AARON COLE

A member of St. Michael's Lutheran church in Mifflin, Mr. Cole is survived by his widow, Mary; a son, Rollo of Ashland; four daughters, Miss Bess of Mifflin, Mrs. George Myers of Mansfield; Mrs. Ray Harlen of Mansfield, R. D. 2, and Mrs. Delos VanTilberg of Ashland; 10 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren. Mr. Cole was the last member of a family of nine children.

Rites will be held from the Wappner funeral home here at 10 a. m. Tuesday with Rev. James Lumadue, Mifflin pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Windsor cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after noon Sunday.

Jury Probes Floggings

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — (INS) — A parade of fifty victims and witnesses of nightrider floggings was scheduled to begin before a Jefferson county grand jury today.

The jury began its investigation yesterday only a few hours after newsmen added the beatings of a Bessemer, Ala., coal miner and a Negro farmer in Clay county, Ala., to the list of cross-burnings, floggings and assaults in the Birmingham area.

Circuit Judge Robert J. Sheeler instructed the panel to "get to the bottom of riotous, venemous and malicious acts" of the bands of robed and hooded raiders.

He asked the jury if any of its members were Ku Klux Klansmen. No one answered. He then added:

"These accounts of alleged violence and anarchy have been published to the whole world, to the chagrin and shame of our county and state.

"It is charged and has not been denied that mobs have entered upon private property and even into the homes of private citizens and have manhandled and beaten men, women and even children."

Customer Shot In Bar Holdup

CLEVELAND — (AP) — A 50-year-old bar patron was wounded critically early today when two masked gunmen began shooting during an attempted robbery of an east side tavern, police said.

One of the bullets passed through the skull of William Harnett, who was seated at the bar when the gunmen entered. Officers said the shooting began when an unidentified patron threw a bottle at one of the masked men as he went behind the bar for money.

Each of the gunmen was reported to have fired one shot before escaping into a nearby alley. They got no money.

Survives Five-Day Ordeal

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Cal. —(UP)— Joan Thompson, 19-year-old Palo Alto coed, amazed physicians today for her "miraculous endurance" while lost for five days without food or shelter in Yosemite canyon.

Joan walked out of box-like Snow Creek canyon under her own power yesterday after three youthful volunteer rescuers found her almost by accident.

She and her sister, Patti, 22, lost their way in the canyon last Monday. Patti was found Wednesday at the point where Joan left her to seek help after Patti broke her leg in a fall.

Joan was in "comparatively good condition" after her ordeal. Dressed only for a short one-day hike, the girl suffered only minor cuts and bruises while hiking through country that defied forest rangers for four days.

SENT TO HOSPITAL

She was placed in a hospital with her sister.

Joan said that she and her sister had left the lodge where they were employed for the summer to take a hike into the Yosemite backwoods. They became lost on an unmarked trail and found themselves in a water-filled gorge where Patti broke her ankle.

Joan made Patti comfortable on a ledge and started out to seek help. Search parties, meanwhile, found Patti and hoisted her out of the gorge on a stretcher.

After losing her way again, Joan climbed partway up 8,000 foot Mount Watkins to get her bearings. From the vantage point she sighted Snow Creek canyon leading towards a settlement. It was shortly after that when the rescue party found her.

Sparklers Can Sparkle, Says Sheriff Long

The state fire marshal's office today issued a warning that all fireworks including sparklers were illegal in Ohio — but as far as Richland County Sheriff E. P. Long is concerned the ban on sparklers will not be enforced here.

The fire marshal 's warning was received on the News-Journal wire, but the sheriff said he had received no notice that sparklers were illegal.

"Its a little late to be putting out something like that," the sheriff said.

"A lot of people have already got sparklers," he added.

The sheriff said he was going by the information he had received from the fire marshal. There is no ban on sparklers in that information, he added.

The sheriff said some illegal fireworks have been brought in from out of the state, but compliance to the ban on shooting fireworks has been "exceptionally good" in Mansfield.

Red Freed From Jail

NEW YORK —(INS)— Daily Worker editor John Gates was freed from the New York federal house of detention early today, eight hours ahead of schedule--apparently to thwart a scheduled communist demonstration.

Gates, one of 11 defendants now on trial in New York on charges of advocating violent overthrow of the government, had been serving a 30-day sentence for contempt of court.

Gates was originally supposed to be released at 7 a. m. EST, but was let out a few minutes after 11 p. m. last night, when his term was considered officially ended. It was understood that communists and their sympathizers had planned a rally outside the federal detention house to "welcome" the newspaper editor.

Yesterday, the U. S. Court of Appeals upheld Gates' sentence, which had been imposed by the trial judge, Harold R. Medina when the communist leader had refused to identify three persons who helped him prepare a pamphlet.

Job Rolls Expected To Grow

Output Shifted To Plant Here

Consolidation of the tire and tube manufacturing facilities of the Pennsylvania Rubber company, Jeannette, Pa., with those of The Mansfield Tire and Rubber company was announced today by officials of the Mansfield firm.

The consolidation, classed as the first major post-war industrial development in Mansfield, is expected to bring employment in the local tire plant back to levels approaching wartime peaks.

Announcement of the merger was made jointly today by H. B. Soulen, president of Mansfield Tire, and Gordon H. Groth, vice president and general manager of the Pennsylvania plant. The action followed several months of negotiations. The consolidation, effective July 1, will bring Pennsylvania Rubber's tire and tube production to the Mansfield plant.

"The combined production for the two plants, when all details of the consolidation are completed, is expected to bring tire operations at the Mansfield plant close to capacity and will give both Mansfield and Pennsylvania customers and dealers a greatly strengthened source of supply," the announcement said.

Sales policies for distribution of both the Mansfield tire brands and the Pennsylvania brands will remain unchanged.

Soulen said that Pennsylvania Rubber's production will be integrated into the regular production of the Mansfield plant on a gradual and orderly basis. He said "it is difficult at this time to accurately predict just when the consolidation process will be completed," adding that "such a move, requires some time."

LONG ESTABLISHED

Pennsylvania Rubber, organized some 50 years ago, will continue to manufacture its nationally known line of athletic goods at Jeannette, and it has plans under consideration for manufacturing additional products there. In its early days, the company manufactured bicycle tires, tennis balls and sundry rubber products. It started manufacturing tires and tubes with the advent of the automotive era and occupies a leading position in the tire industry.

G. W. Stephens, president of Mansfield Tire for 26 years and now chairman of the board, termed the consolidation "another great advance for Mansfield, the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company and the Pennsylvania company." He pointed out that it will go far toward stabilizing employment and aiding business here in Mansfield.

Early in May the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company announced that it had entered the plastics field by the manufacture of Vinyl Film, a sheet plastic.

Production of Vinyl Film was started recently and eventually will result in the employment of about 100 workers in that department alone. The plastic material is being manufactured in a division entirely separate from the tire and tube manufacturing departments.

Shame Keeps Lad In Bushes

MIDDLETOWN — (AP) — Thirteen-year-old Ova Kakaris hid in some weeds along the Great Miami river yesterday and watched police search for his body.

His brother, Edward, 7, had notified his parents Ova disappeared in the river while trying to rescue his pet dog.

An onlooker noticed movement in the weeds. Police investigated and found Ova. He was naked.

"I was ashamed to come out," the lad said.

Train Story New Work Of Russian

English Translation Available At Library

THE TRAIN, by Vera Panova, is one of the new books for adults which will be available at the Mansfield Public library Monday. This fiction selection is the first Russian novel to be translated into English since the war.

It tells the story of a group of men and women who travel together on a hospital train during the war. While the train moves back and forth between the front and its base, the staff members perform their duties and separately consider their personal lives.

U. S. STORIES, edited by Martha Foley and Abraham Rothberg, brings together regional stories from the 48 states. Each was chosen, not because its author happened to have been born in a certain state, but because it gives the flavor of life in that state. Naturally, no short story can present a picture of the whole life of a state, but each of these gives one brilliant facet of that life.

CANNON HILL, by Mary Deasy, is the story of two families in a Midwestern town in the earlier and more serene days of the Twentieth century. The Beauchamps had been an important family in the beginning of Cannon Hill, suburb of Bard city, but their fortunes declined and now Rhoda Beauchamp kept boarders in the old Cannon House, which her grandfather had built.

DRAMATIC CONFLICT

When the silent Welchman, Robert Brand, and his small daughter, Bronwen, asked for lodging, Rhoda reluctantly accepted them, though they looked too poor to pay. In the years that followed, the two families became more and more involved in dramatic conflict and love.

Other fiction: SINISTER SHELTER, by Leonard; HARD RIDERS, by Hopkins; STAIRCASE 4, by Reilly.

Non Fiction:

CHINA CHANGED MY MIND, by David Morris, is a thoughtful account of the war experiences of the author, a young English pacifist. Exempted from military duty because of his conscientious objections, he joined the Friends' Ambulance Unit and was sent to China. After briefly defending his position as a pacifist, he reports the things which he saw in China during two years with the Unit and tells why he left it to enlist in the British army.

THE SITUATION IN ASIA, by Owen Lattimore, analyzes what goes on in Asia, describing it country by country and as a whole, and considering what the developments in Asia mean to America. Our policy toward Asia, Lattimore states, has been based on illusions, and he believes that until we shed those illusions, we shall continue to stumble into messes like that in China in 1949.

CRISIS IN EDUCATION, by Bernard Iddings Bell, is an indictment of education in the United States and of American civilization in general so sweeping that almost any reader will find some points on which he agrees with the author, though few will go with him all the way.

Dr. Bell believes that present-day education is producing a race of perpetual adolescents, and he suggests remedies, including a return to a system based on the teaching of the three R's and attention to training in morals and manners.

Other non-fiction:

THE MAGIC LAND, MEXICO, by Hancock; RUMBA IS MY LIFE, by Cugat; AMERICAN THEMES, by Brogan; ROUND DANCE BOOK, by Shaw; MUSIC OF SIBELIUS, by Abraham; VELASQUEZ, by Riggs; BUYING COUNTRY PROPERTY, by Moral; LIVING WITH CRISIS, by Sternberg; AUSTIN'S NEW ENCYCLOPEDIA FOR HOMEMAKERS.

Boost Fund To $12,000

Members of the Church of God in Christ have raised approximately $12,000 toward their new building at 221 North Diamond street.

Funds have come from members of the congregation and other interested persons, and the group hopes to raise an additional $6,000 so the church which will cost an estimated $18,000 can be completed in the next few weeks.

Construction of the new building was begun about three weeks ago. The congregation has been holding services in the basement until the building is completed.

The new church is of masonry construction finished in hand-painted art stone of different colors.

When completed it will be a two-story building with the sanctuary and office rooms on the main floor and Sunday school rooms on the second floor.

The new structure is being erected on the site of an old building which formerly was used by the congregation for services.

Mrs. John Douglas, Mrs. Anna May Dunca, and Mose Haynes are members of the fund raising committee. Contributions are being received by the pastor, Rev. L. G. Maddox.

Trains Roll Into Berlin

BERLIN — (INS) — Four allied trains rolled into Berlin from west Germany yesterday, marking the end of the "little blockade" caused by the six week rail strike.

U. S. transport officials also reported that truck traffic was "virtually normal" following delays caused by Russian guards' insistence on credentials signed by Soviet officials.

Drivers from west Germany took the precaution of having proper documents and were admitted into Berlin, although earlier, some food-laden trucks had been stopped or diverted.

In Berlin itself, the city elevated railway resumed full operations.

Both the city railway and traffic from west Germany had been idle for six weeks in a "little blockade" caused by the strike of 15,000 anti - communist rail workers.

Bullets Fly As Biscuits Bake In Oven

CEDAR RAPIDS, IA. — (UP) — For a lively moment Mrs. Lowell Long wondered what she had put into those biscuits in the oven.

Then she remembered that when the family went on a vacation recently, two revolvers were hidden in the stove.

The volley of shots which began as the oven was turned on damaged the stove.

The biscuits came through unscratched.

U. S. Demands Reds Enforce Old Treaty

The House Committee on un-American Activities last week issued a report dealing with pro-communist activities in this country by groups who are natives of Russia and its satellite countries.

To limit this the committee recommended "strict enforcement" of the treaty made between the United States and Russia in 1933. Strict enforcement of that treaty now would be sixteen years belated.

The treaty was the beginning of relations with Russia which now compose a tragic era.

Preceding 1933, the United States had for sixteen years continuously denied recognition of the communist government of Russia—recognition was denied by four Presidents — Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover.

Then President Roosevelt, within a few months after he took office extended recognition.

This was done in a formal treaty in which the Russian government made specific promises. The main one was "to refrain and restrain all persons . . . under its direct or indirect control . . . from any acts, overt or covert, liable in any way whatsoever to injure the tranquility, prosperity, order, or security of the . . . United States."

The treaty was immensely valuable to Russian Communism. Previously, its agents could not enter the United States legally, those who did so came furtively. Further advantage came from the now permitted setting up of a Russian Embassy in Washington, consulates in some cities. The greatest advantage lay in the prestige of recognition. By implication, our people, and the world, got assurance that Russian communism must not be so great a threat as had been supposed, else our government would not have recognized it and set up diplomatic relations with it. To opportunity for infiltration and propaganda here, Russian communism got the further advantage that our people were disarmed of suspicion and defense.

The sixteen years since our recognition of Russia is an epoch, not an ended epoch, on the contrary one spreading out into new developments. In the present stage it is the country's major concern, domestically and in its relation to the world.

Last week the three court trials that commended the country's most attention had to do with communism, all the trials had gone on for weeks or months. One was a trial of eleven heads of the American communist party on charges of conspiracy to teach and advocate over-throw of the government. One trial arose out of a charge that an employee of the Department of Justic had attempted to transmit government documents to a Russian. One trial arose out of possession of confidential State Department documents, by an admitted spy of the Russian Communism.

If these three trials happened to be simultaneous and conspicuous last week, they were but an indicative fraction of the expense to which we are forced to concern about penetration of Russian Communism into our domestic institutions. And in our relation to the world, defense against Russian Communism consumes more than half the expenditures of our government.

U. S. Arms Sparking Dominican Trouble

As we got out of the plane at Ciudad Trujillo, unsmiling Dominican soldiers and policemen grimly directed us, "This way please," into a narrow space defined by iron chains where souvenirs and soft drinks were sold.

The same stern politeness which made one feel as though a 45 was being pressed in his back accompanied the words, "Board your plane, please."

As we circled the field and departed for Port-au-Prince, we counted 38 American-manufactured P51 fighter planes, 23 P38s, 2 heavy bombers—B17s, and what looked from the distance like a B29. In addition there were 30 or more training planes and a half dozen or so English fighter planes.

The atmosphere at Ciudad Trujillo was heavy with aggression and fear; here in unarmed Haiti is only friendliness and ease. But that relaxed atmosphere is more apparent than real.

President Dumarsais Estime and his government know that they live from day to day at the point of a gun in the hands of a Caribbean Hitler-Mussolini-Franco—guns by courtesy of the United States. As American citizens, we wondered why our country, needing peace in the Western Hemisphere, would permit the arming of the gravest threat to peace in the Caribbean.

How did Trujillo obtain these planes? Some say through the black market. Others say that some of his planes were given by the United States to other countries and sold by them to Trujillo. The War Assets administration office in New York says there is no legal prohibition of the sale of surplus war equipment, even to dictators who are able to pay for it, but insists no plane is permitted to fly out of any American airfield without clearance.

We wonder where the State department was when these planes were flown to the Dominican Republic to enable Trujillo to force other Latin American countries to spend their funds for war instead of peace.

Under President Estime, Haiti is making a desperate effort to lift herself out of the economic chaos in which she has been plunged for years, particularly as a result of the ill-fated Cryptostegia or rubber-raising experiment conducted in Haiti by the United States government during the war. By a feat of financial legerdemain President Estime has raised the average wage from one gourde (20 cents) to three and one-half gourdes a day.

PAID OFF LOAN

Through the floating of an internal loan of ten million dollars, Haiti has paid off the balance of a loan which was forced upon her in 1922. Elaborate plans are being made for a bi-centennial celebration of the founding of Port-au-Prince beginning next December in the most idyllic and beautiful setting of sea and mountain to be found anywhere in the world.

But Trujillo's threats are forcing the Haitian government to consider spending three million dollars for arms to protect themselves against invasion and aggression.

It is well known that Trujillo could not last six months unless he were bolstered up by Americans aid. The time has come for the United States to stop giving aid to disturbers of the peace in Latin America or anywhere else.

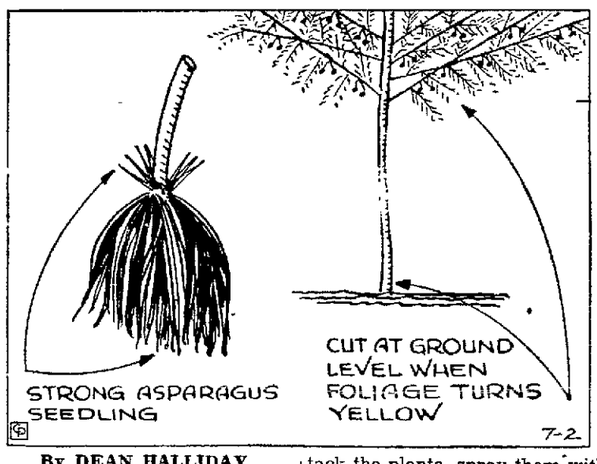
Asparagus Needs Fall Care



By DEAN HALLIDAY
(Central Press Association)

Asparagus is acclaimed when it sprouts in the spring and then forgotten and neglected by most home gardeners after its annual bounty has been enjoyed.

Few give heed to the fact that to keep an asparagus bed in good bearing condition it should have thorough cultivation between seasons and a liberal fertilization each fall.

In the fall, after the stalks turn yellow, they should be cut off close to the ground, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Burn the cut stalks and then spread three to four inches of manure over the entire bed. By spring most of the manure will have rotted so it can be dug into the surface without disturbing the crowns of the plants.

Do not leave stumps of the asparagus stalks protruding above ground for if you do they may harbor the asparagus beetle.

Should the asparagus rust attack the plants, spray them with Bordeaux mixture. If only a few stalks seem affected, cut them off and burn them.

As the older stalks are cut down watch for seedling plants which may be growing in various parts of the bed. When seedlings are found which appear to be strong and healthy, as illustrated, transplant them into a new bed. Weak plants, however are not worth the time and trouble of transplanting.

Roots are generally planted in the spring as soon as the soil can be put in good condition. There is also a short period in the fall, just after frost stops growth of the tops and before the ground freezes hard, when new roots can be transplanted successfully.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

PAGE FOUR — MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, JULY 2, 1949

Drive carefully tonight, tomorrow and Monday—this is another of those dangerous week-ends.

Word comes that some congressmen are getting suspicious about that X character in algebra—and are asking for the full name.

It is cheerfully announced that the new card game, Canasta, "can be learned in an hour"—at least well enough to be a loser.

Installment Buying Curbs Ended

GOOD JUDGMENT, rather than government control, must be depended upon hereafter to determine the extent of installment selling and buying, as the power of the Federal Reserve board to set credit terms has just expired.

It was deemed wise, during the inflationary rise in prices, to limit credit buying by requiring larger down payments and quicker pay-off of balances. There was some relaxation of requirements last April and now governmental restraints are entirely removed.

This leaves decisions entirely to dealers and customers, with the hope that both will exercise judgment in keeping installment sales and purchases within the limits of paying ability.

The record reveals that last year, when credit requirements were stricter, about one-half of the sales in furniture stores were on installment credit; about one-third of the sales of household appliance stores and automobile dealers, and about one-fourth of jewelry sales.

It is pointed out, in an informative way, that while expansion of sales on credit helped to get the country out of the depression of 1921-22, it also was a factor in taking the country deeper into the depression in 1930-32, when many families overextended themselves in credit commitments, and repossessed articles swamped the market.

There are many instances in which installment buying, either of needed merchandise, household conveniences, or a home, serves a valuable purpose—but it scarcely need be said that down payments and reasonably assured prospective income should be sufficient to meet any obligations thus assumed.

Another Mystery Awaits Solution

THIS SEASON of the year seems especially fruitful in the development of mysterious happenings in Mansfield. Now it is evidence of arson in connection with the Thursday morning fire at Richland Post of the American Legion on North Diamond street that is engaging attention.

Within another few days will come the first anniversary of the bomb explosion in the rear of a South Park street cafe, which resulted in injury of two Mansfield patrolmen and two city firemen. This mysterious crime has not yet been solved, although assurance is given in police circles that it has not been forgotten and that efforts are continuing to learn the identity of the man who was observed running from the scene after having placed the bomb and lighted the fuse.

If, as now appears, someone intentionally started the fire in the rooms of Richland Post, American Legion, there should be no minimizing the seriousness of the offense and every effort should be made to apprehend and punish the offender.

When It's Too Hot To Work

WHEN the mercury jumps to higher levels—in the upper eighties or lower nineties, for instance—there is quite natural inclination to avoid exertion, even to the extent, in some cases, of workers leaving factory jobs because of the heat, as happened in Detroit a few days ago.

The Detroit News deemed this occurrence worthy of editorial comment, as follows:

"Farm hands in Kansas will get a good laugh out of the report that Detroit factory workers are quitting their jobs because of the heat. Out there 120 degrees in the sun is not uncommon. And the farm boys go on with their work, lest the factory workers have no bread next winter!"

Helping France In Practical Way

THE European Recovery Program is about to make some of the dry regions of southeastern France fruitful and prosperous. Hitherto untillable land is to be flooded and planted to rice, an important food product in France. France hopes to become the greatest producer of rice in Europe, whereas before the war nearly all of this product in use was imported from the Far East.

A large hydro-electric plant is expected to contribute to the billion or more kilowatts of additional power needed in France. American machinery and Marshall Plan funds are contributing to carrying out these plans and other irrigation projects.

Thus one more enterprise is under way with the purpose of making Europe self-supporting. In this case Marshall Plan funds are being put to the exact use for which they were intended—helping Europeans to help themselves.

Ukulele Returning To Favor

UKULELES are said to be on the way back, thanks largely to the popularity of New York's present musical comedy success, "South Pacific." A Pacific island musical drama would be inconceivable without the strumming notes of the ukulele.

Back in World War I days the ukulele trailed every one's footsteps in residence districts on summer evenings. Then about 1935 its popularity dropped, perhaps because of the growing appeal of more violent music. The uke ceased to be the constant companion of youth, and went into the limbo that contained those other once popular instruments, the banjo and the mandolin.

Claude Callan suggests: "There is no use standing in a long line to get into trouble. There's plenty of it to go around."

Sad Plight of Governors

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON — It may comfort President Truman, though probably not much, that many governors of states are having this year the same sort of troubles with their legislatures that he is having with the 81st Congress.

The traveling reporter returns home to the big legislative body which is Congress to find that the noises of confusion and frustration are like a concentrated echo from the smaller bodies, indeed, the biggest topic of backstage talk at the annual governors' conference at Colorado Springs.

What goes on here in Washington in Congress, or what doesn't go on, rather, and what goes on or doesn't go on in state legislatures, all seems part of a pattern.

Four governors were unable to attend the Colorado Srpings meeting because of tangles and blockades in their legislatures. Two others were compelled to hasten home before the conference ended to meet legislative dilemmas.

Others who remained kept constant contact with embattled legislatures. Those whose legislatures had adjourned already exchanged experiences — and the sad tales were many.

Least successful of all with their legislatures, some of whom got almost nothing, are Democratic governors elected last November on the same sort of progressive platforms for their states that President Truman pledged nationally.

They and President Truman were swept into office in what amounted to a popular revolution, unexpected as it was, nevertheless, positive. The poeple asked for something with their votes. Little has been done either here or in the states.

It becomes very plain that what is going on now, that what is blocking Congress as well as many state legislatures, is a counter-revolution to stop progressive programs in the public interest all the way from local government in state legislatures to Congress here.

* * *

Aggressive Minority.

IT IS a minority movement, but is being promoted effectively and successfully by powerful, privileged economic interests determined to check the popular revolution at the polls last November.

What we are witnessing, as a result, is a breakdown of popular government at a critical period in our history as a democracy. It is a matter of grave concern, the really outstanding fact of these times. For the aspirations of the people, if long bottled up, explode eventually in a way that is not always polite or even wise, as our history has shown.

The stray and fugitive voices raised at Colorado Springs for "state's rights" were drowned out by the loudest public confessional this reporter has ever heard at such meetings that the states, themselves, are to blame for the invasion of the federal government on many fronts.

The states, it was admitted, have refused to assume responsibility in these fields, particularly in social welfare. They have abrogated the right they possess. This confession came from both Republicans and Democrats.

The basic trouble, of course, is the rotten-borough system that still exists in most of our states, which are so gerrymandered in legislative districts that a minority of the people elect a majority of the legislature.

This lends itself to manipulation by powerful special interests that concentrate on the smaller units, towns and rural areas, which have representation in legislatures far out of proportion to population or the number of votes cast.

The result, as can be shown in cases that can be documented from the last election, is that governors elected with a mandate from the people to achieve certain things found themselves at the outset not only confronted with hostile legislatures controlled by the minority party, but also surrounded with heads of departments, elective officials, who also are of the other party. Their hands are tied almost hopelessly.

Unless basic reforms are made in legislative apportionment so that a majority of the people have a voice, then this frustration will continue, and we will continue to have minority government instead of popular democratic government. The states will gradually lose more and more of their "rights" by default.

Disagree On Labor Bill

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — The Taft Hartley Labor Act looks certain to stay unchanged for at least another year.

The Truman Democrats had vowed to destroy that act. Things have gone so badly for them they'll consider it a kind of victory now to keep it.

They lost their last hope of killing T - H when the Senate passed a new labor bill closely resembling the present law.

This was put over by the Republicans and southern Democrats who, by joining forces, outnumbered the Truman Democrats. The next move is up to the House. There can be no new labor law at all unless both houses approve a bill.

So the Trumanites have these moves open to them:

Their leaders in the House can try to block any labor bill from being voted on at all.

Or, if they couldn't block a vote, they could try to get the House to pass a bill, an anti-T - H bill, completely different from the Senate's.

That in itself would prevent any new labor law this session, for a simple reason: It wouldn't get past the Senate.

(When both Houses pass different bills on the same subject there can be no new law unless they compromise their differences and agree on one bill.)

But the Truman Democrats in the House might lose control there, as they did in the Senate, to Republicans and southern Democrats.

That happened when the House took up a labor bill earlier this year—and it very nearly passed one much like Taft-Hartley.

If the House were to pass such a bill on a second try it probably would have no trouble ironing out differences with the Senate and agreeing on one bill.

* * *

Difficult Hurdles.

BUT that agreed-upon bill still couldn't become law unless the President signed it.

And Mr. Truman probably would veto it, and make his veto stick, for a simple reason:

The Senate vote Thursday was 51 to 42, a long way from the two-thirds of the 96 Senators necessary to re-pass a bill over a veto.

So, in the end, the decision of killing a new labor law—or of okaying one that resembles T-H—may be up to Mr. Truman.

But why would the Trumanites rather let T-H stand as is than let a new law, that looks like T-H but is slightly milder, get on the books?

For several reasons:

The Trumanites promised to wipe out T-H. Letting that law be replaced by one resembling it could hardly—in the eyes of organized labor—be considered keeping a promise.

Yet, the Trumanites owe a debt to labor which helped elect them on their promise to get rid of T-H. And the Trumanites will need the support of labor in future elections.

So, if the present law is allowed to stand —instead of a new law much like it—the Trumaintes could argue:

We promised, but the Republicans and southern Democrats teamed up against us. We tried to make good. Blame them. We wouldn't settle for anything that looked like T-H. We still want to keep our promises.

We'll try it again at our next session in 1950. If we don't win then, we'll make a campaign issue of it in the 1950 elections and ask organized labor to help us elect so many Trumanites that we can put a new labor law in.

So—thus topsy-turvy scramble over a new labor law today may become one of the big issues in the 1950 elections.

The Republicans and southern Democrats, of course, can argue on their side that they made real changes in T-H, 28 in fact, and that the Trumanites were the ones responsible for keeping T-H.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Seven Months of Debate, Little Action

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

CONGRESS grappled last week with some of its most ticklish domestic legislative problems—labor, housing and education.

It's been virtually seven months since the 81st Congress, controlled by the Democrats, started work. Until this week, except for rent control, it hadn't enacted one major item of President Truman's campaign promises or the party platform.

The case of labor legislation appears typical of much of what Congress has been doing — or rather what it hasn't been doing. It is not at all certain even now that a new labor law will be passed to replace the Taft-Hartley Act.

Effective Coalitions.

The House took first crack at writing it and narrowly averted passing a bill which would have retained most major provisions of the T-H law, getting rid of only its name.

In the Senate, as earlier in the House, a coalition of southern Democrats and conservative Republicans administered a crushing defeat to the administration. They forced inclusion of plant seizure and injunction powers for the President in all emergency disputes affecting national health and safety.

The new bill, including the major provision of the T-H law, is to go to the House and thence to the President.

Mr. Truman's veto is considered practically a certainty and thus the Taft-Hartley law may remain on the books to become a major issue in the 1950 congressional elections.

The administration fared better on housing. Democratic leadership in the House beat back a number of crippling amendments to the multi-billion-dollar national housing bill.

A year ago public housing was a focal point in the revolt of the 80th Congress. The Taft-Wagner-Ellender housing bill was long and hotly debated but finally was rejected.

Different Ideas.

Deep-seated differences over federal aid to education have provoked long and bitter debate in both houses of Congress. When the House returns from its July Fourth holiday it will consider a new bill fashioned along lines of the one passed by the Senate.

The Senate measure would make available $350,000,000 a year in grants to assist the states. Each state would be allowed funds at the rate of $5 per pupil, plus additional aid up to $29 per pupil for the so-called "back-ward" states.

At Home

Pay-Off Coming Up.

Nearly four years after V-J Day, the government is getting ready to tackle the long, difficult job of paying off World War II claims for damages.

Congress authorized the new War Claims Commission a year ago but didn't vote funds for it until recently. Meanwhile, with preliminary claims piling up by the hundreds, the State Department has resorted to form statements in reply to inquiries.

The time limit for filing claims has been extended to March 1, 1951.

* * *

Atom and Security.

The atom looms large in every nation's concept of security. Congress was asked last week to declare that the United States will not use atomic bombs except as a reprisal weapon in the event some other nation resorts to atomic warfare.

So far as has been disclosed, the U. S. is the only country now capable of producing the A-bomb.

A top government scientist declares that too many people are confusing secrecy with security. Unfortunately, he says, secrecy and progress are mutually incompatible.

The result, says Dr. Karl T. Compton, chairman of the National Research and Development Board, is that real security is suffering.

* * *

Foreign Policy Accord.

There has been a conspicuous slackening on Capitol Hill recently of criticism against the European rearmament program. This has been interpreted in some quarters as a sign that it, like the Atlantic Pact, will be approved at this session of Congress.

The pact must be ratified by the Senate alone. Both houses must approve the arms aid program.

When the lawmakers return from their Fourth of July holiday, the docket will be full of high priority bills to implement the foreign policy.

Congress has approved but not yet appropriated funds for the second year of the Marshall plan.

* * *

Times and Customs.

A Worcester, Mass., clergyman has changed a portion of the wedding vows which reads "so long as you both shall live" to "so long as you both shall love."

The Rev. Gordon B. McKeeman of All Souls Universalist Church says the original version is "antiquated." He holds it does not conform to the present cultural pattern of society.

The Rev. McKeeman says he sees no reason to ask couples to take a vow they may not keep.

Abroad

Bilateral Pact Signed.

Britain and Argentina signed a five-year trade agreement last week, despite American objections.

The pact calls for exchanges of goods worth 500 million dollars the first year, and at least an equal volume in the other years. Britain will supply the bulk of Argentina's imports (oil, coal, automobiles, whisky and machinery) in return for an estimated 300,000 tons of meat, cereals and other foodstuffs.

The pact commits the two nations to virtual barter. Originally the U. S. state department protested that this violates the spirit of free competitive international trade.

American businessmen fear the two-way pact may cut this country off from one of the principal South American markets.

* * *

Tests Too Realistic.

The first reaction of British residents to air exercises testing defenses of industrial England against an atom bomb blitz was that they were too realistic.

Thousands of aroused parents, their sleep broken on a hot weekend by low-flying planes, telephoned the Air Ministry to complain. Many said their children reminded of wartime blitz raids ran screaming from their homes.

To all complaints the Air Ministry had one answer: "If we are to prepare an adequate defense, our practices must be as real as we can make them."

* * *

Canada Goes Liberal.

The Canadian Liberal party won a smashing political victory last week reminiscent of the 1936 Roosevelt landslide in the United States.

The Liberals, headed by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, won 193 of the 262 Commons seats and led in all provinces but Alberta in the greatest party triumph in Canadian history.

The Liberal party is Canada's nearest equivalent to U. S. Democrats. Their chief opponents, the Progressive Conservatives who resemble U. S. Republicans, won 42 seats.

Farmer's Diary

The 'Little More'

By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE blacksmith had worked on a weeder from before noon until after four. I happened along, with a small job for him to do, and watched him finish and adjust the weeder so that the tractor could raise it up without a lever. The farmer whose broken tool had caused him grief was now delighted.

"What do I owe you, George? That's a doggone good job."

"Three-fifty."

The farmer took out his wallet and stood there, face turned away, for a moment. "Tain't enough," he said. "Here's four dollars and I'm better satisfied."

I noticed that everybody near was happy that this good workman had received the little more which was clearly his own.

* * *

IT HAPPENED to me like this: I hauled ice for a year or so when I was in college. If I cleaned the ice cabinet thoroughly each time it was refilled it didn't take long and I could do a neater job—also sell more ice—and the customers appreciated it. They gave me fruit and cake so that other drivers wondered audibly and teased me about my "drag."

But a rival in Latin class always got better grades than I. His window was across from mine. When I turned out my light, after studying all evening, very likely his light still burned brightly. That extra half hour every night brought him a rich scholarship prize when school ended. He had invested a little more than I.

* * *

I AM sure it pays to take time to know one's self. Often when the day's work is over, I find pleasure and relaxation—yes more, devotion and renewed courage—in walking alone over the hills and valleys along Honey Creek. I think every person should take time to be his own guest. At such times, with the wind upon my face and the fragrance of earth and flowers and fields of grain rising all about me, life runs very deep and God is not far away.

Some would call it prayer, perhaps ... this communion with self and the beauty that lies all about. Victor Hugo said well that prayer, regardless of bodily posture, is when the heart is on its knees. Those high moments of awe and rapture that come to a man, alone on a windswept hill, are the "little more" that give savor and joy to life.

Snoring Really No Joke

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SNORING is not the joke we habitually consider it. Noisy breathing during sleep can be distressing not only to those who must listen to it but, often, to the snorer himself.

While more often produced when air is drawn into the lungs snoring can also accompany exhaling of the breath. It is usually the result of vibration in the soft palate and other structures in the back of the mouth.

Snoring may also be due to blocking of the nasal passages, such as may be produced by a bent septum or by inflammation of the nose's lining membrane. Inflammation of the throat may also be a cause.

Cutting Off Uvula.

Methods good and bad, have been used over the years to prevent snoring. One of those which in most cases, accomplishes nothing is the cutting off of the uvula, the small, pear-shaped structure which hangs from the roof of the mouth.

Fortunately, there are other measures which may have real value in the individual case. In the first place the nose should be carefully examined to determine whether or not there is any obstruction to the passages.

Any such obstruction should be relieved. In some cases, nose drops used before retiring is all that is required, although sometimes a nasal operation is needed.

Keep Mouth Closed.

Some persons may snore only when lying on their back. Various devices have been used to keep the snorer from sleeping on his back, such as fastening a spool to the back, and these are of help.

Keeping the mouth closed during sleep may solve the problem. This can be done by placing a strip of adhesive across the corners of the mouth.

Injections of certain solutions into the soft palate have been suggested and found helpful in a few instances.

Dave Boone Says:

THOSE five-to-four decisions by the Supreme Court continue to make the general public feel lost in a fog. The court, in a photo finish, has just freed an alleged communist leader from a perjury conviction on the ground a quorum wasn't present.

* * *

As Justice Jackson pointed out, the point of whether or not there was a quorum around at the time of the alleged perjury wasn't even raised until long after the lower-court conviction. Anyhow, the man goes free on the technicality of whether he lied to a congressional committee or not. It's the first time I knew that whether a man was a liar depended on a quorum.

* * *

That New York communist trial is now finishing its sixth straight month, coming close now to "Oklahoma!" and "Life With Father." There will probably be a claim the court was hasty.

* * *

I don't know how the trial will come out, but they say that whoever is ahead on July 4th will be ahead at the end of the season.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Amelia Earhart Putnam, world-famous aviatrix, was lost 12-years ago today while making an equatorial air trip around the world. She left the port of Lae, New Guinea, on July 1, and her last message said that she was over the Pacific, had one-half hour's supply of fuel, and was not in sight of land.

City's Postal Receipts on Upswing

Walter Winchell

Public May Forget 'Scoops' But Thrill Lingers For Reporters

Scoops sell newspapers. Yet the desire for exclusive yarns isn't only commercial—it is personal. A reporter takes fierce pride in his work. And even the most cynical newsmen retain some of the enthusiasm they had as gee-whiz club reporters . . . The public may quickly forget scoops, but the excitement and satisfaction of beating the field mints medals for a reporter's memory.

There is no rigid formula for scoop-hunting. You can sweat over some yarns and stumble over others. . . . During the 1920 GOP convention party leaders held an all-night huddle in a Chicago hotel room in an effort to pick their standard-bearer. . . . At 3 ayem one politico emerged and noticed a reporter in the lobby. He informed him: "They are going to try to put over Senator Harding."

That was the initial beat scored by a young reporter who later became a leading Washington columnist — Raymond Clapper.

Some years ago a county in Illinois was dominated by mobsters who gribed and intimidated law-enforcers. Swell-headed on power the head mobster was contemptuous of newspapermen. Learning that the gang leader was an egomaniac, reporter John Rogers(of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch) baited the trap by penning several complimentary articles about him. As a result he gained the confidence of the gangster and his henchmen.

Rogers shrewdly pumped them for information. It was a risky chore which took many weeks. But gradually the fragments of information took shape until the murderous jigsaw was complete.

Every member of the gang was convicted. The leader was sent to the gallows and the others were sentenced to life imprisonment.

A reporter can never tell where he'll spot a spark that will ignite a front page explosion. Foreign newsboy Demaree C. Bess was in Shanghai in 1925 when a bloody strike hit the city. . .Interviewing a strike leader Bess was asstounded to hear him openly declare: "Several foreigners have given us advice. Russia has sent us a little money and firends to assist our cause."

That's how the world first learned that the Soviet Union was provoking civil strife in China.

A wily bit of deduction helped editor Julian Harris of the Columbus Sun-Enquirer score an important beat. . A dispatch revealed an unidentified governor had addressed a Klan conclave in Kansas City—in which he used the phrase "bridging the chasm" Harris recalled the phrase was a pet platitude of Georgia's Gov-Clifford Walker. . .He checked the governor's movements the day the speech was made and rounded up eye-witnesses.

Shown the evidence—Gov. Walker admitted bing a Kluxer.

This is how Fred Griffin of the Toronto Daily Star beat the field on the rescue of a famed flier in the Canadian wilderness: More than 50 newsmen covered the yarn in the little town of Murray Bay, Canada—which had only 2 wires to the outside world. . . Griffin tied up one by having an assistant grab it at dawn and send copy to his sheet from old issues of a magazine. When the story broke—Griffin had a wire — while 50 furious reporters fought for the other ticker.

Course of Love, True or Untrue, Raises Number of Complications

The girl was dark-haired and young and pert as a pony. There was a waggle to her body as she stepped into the street and hailed the cab.

"Oh, oh! A good looker for a change," said the driver. He halted and for a moment considered opening the door for her. Then he thought, "Oh, hell, why spoil 'em when they're young? Give 'em some attention now, and when they're old and grey they'll still think they deserve it."

So the young girl opened the door herself, perched on the back seat, and said:

"Welfare Island ferry."

As the cab started off, she said:

"Say, how many thousand dollars are there in a million dollars?"

"Look," said the driver, "quit picking on me. I f I knew how many thousands was in a million would I be driving a hack? Why do you want to know?"

"Cause that old lady we just passed on the sidewalk has a million dollars. Just inherited it. She lives at the hotel where I work."

The cab paused at a red light, and the driver asked:

"Whatcha goin' all the way to Welfare island on such a hot day for?"

"To see my daughter. She's got a bum heart — really bum. Imagine that! And she's only four years old."

"Tch, tch," clucked the driver.

She tossed her mane of midnight hair back from her damp forehead. She lit a cigaret and said moodily, "Oh, hell!"

"Watsa matter now?"

"Oh, my love life's all fussed up."

"How, little chicken?"

"Oh, I've divorced my husband — he's a piano player. And I've been going with a detective. But he's such a perfectionist. He's crazy jealous if I'm five minutes late for a date. I also got a dance instructor boy friend. He's more fun, but I can't depend on him. Sometimes he shows up for a date two days late."

"Uh huh," said the driver. "Well, if you ask me- - -."

"And then there's my bus driver boy friend, he's really the sweetest," the girl went on. "And there's the embalmer — he makes more money than any of 'em. Calls me up seventeen times a day."

"Marry the embalmer," said the taxi driver. "Follow the dough, kid."

"But he gives me the creeps," she shuddered. "He is so proud of his work he wants me to come down and watch him. And afterward I can't touch his hands or bear to let him kiss me."

"Don't he wear rubber gloves?"

"Yes, but- - -"

The driver mulled this over. As he halted near the ferry terminal, he said:

"Honey, I've got it all figured out. Your detective is going to shoot you to death some evening while cleaning his gun. Your embalmer will fix you up pretty. Your dance instructor will dance at the funeral and your first husband will play the piano. Then the bus driver will take everybody out to the cemetery for nothing.

"And, sister, the whole darn thing won't cost you a nickel. What have you got to worry about?"

The girl paid her fare and laughed uneasily.

"I know you're only joking," she said, "But you're the second person who has told me the detective will end up by shooting me."

The cab driver watched as she walked away. There was a defiant waggle to her body.

"If I wasn't married and had three kids- - -" he said.

Teaching Mission Endorsed

Ministers' Group Puts OK On Plan

Members of the Mansfield Ministerial association and lay members of Mansfield churches last night endorsed a movement to participate in a National Christian Teaching Mission this fall.

Ten Mansfield churches were represented at the meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church last night, and other churches have indicated they will endorse the movement.

Dr. W. M. Taylor, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church and chairman of the evangelistic committee of the Ministerial association who was in charge of last night's meeting, said letters will be sent to all Mansfield churches asking them to vote on participation in the mission. All reports on voting must be made by Aug. 1.

Dr. Taylor said the teaching mission is a national movement, sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches and the International Council of Religious Education.

Churches in cities participating in the movement will unite in making a thorough religious census of city. With these figures, they will unite in a program to enlist non-church members in some church in the city.

The program will be a combination of visitations and teaching, Dr. Taylor said.

Similar missions will be conducted in 75 cities all over the country this fall. Plans are being made to conduct the mission here late in October.

Rev. Edward W. Gebhard, of Chicago, associate director of the National Christian Teaching Mission, spoke to the group last night and outlined plans for the mission.

Mansfield churches represented at last night's meeting included Park Avenue Baptist, First Presbyterian, St. Matthew's Lutheran, First Lutheran, St. Paul Lutheran, First Methodist, United Presbyterian, Main Street Evangelical, United Brethren, First Evangelical United Brethren, and the Church of the Brethren.

Mansfielders who do not have an opportunity to get their tickets today may buy them any time after noon Monday at Arlin field.

Gillingham urged Mansfielders to buy their tickets in advance to avoid the crowds at Arlin field the evening of the program.

General admission seats will be located on the south side of the field, and children under 12 will be admitted free in this section. General admission tickets are 25 cents.

JAP PRISONERS ARRIVE HOME—Looking sleek and well fed and singing the communist "Internationale," 2,000 repatriated Jap POWs swarm ashore at Maizuru after spending several years in Siberian prison camps. Some of them say there are 95,000 Japs still in Soviet camps who will join the communist party voluntarily when they get home. The repatriates say they were not forced to work by the Russians, but did so of their own free will "for the greater glory of the Soviet Union." Sign in background reads "Welcome Home." Record Richland Budget Approved

A record county budget offered last week by County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe was approved unanimously today by the county commissioners.

The budget, calling for $1,440,556 for county operations next year, represents a gain of $51,670 over the funds set up for this year's operations.

The budget now must be approved by the county budget commission.

No one appeared at the public hearing at the courthouse today to protest passage of the budget bill or object to any items in it.

Some of the major items, Wolfe explained, are the $91,000 for the Tuberculosis sanatorium and the general fund allocation of $678,000. Last year's budget called for $75,000 for the sanatorium and $617,000 for the general fund.

The contribution to the public employes' retirement fund will be $5,000 in 1950 and the auditor figured the Soldiers' relief appropriation at the .5 of a mill limit of $66,000. So far this year the Soldiers' relief program has appropriated $40,000, Wolfe said.

The amount set aside for the contingency fund was double last year's $10,000.

Requests for the various county departments was almost identical with those of the 1949 budget.

Youth Kills Guardsman

NEW YORK — (UP) — Military discipline prevented the capture last night of a youth who struck a national guardsman a fatal blow with his fists in the presence of 900 comrades marching through Brooklyn.

Police said a youth identified as John Hart, 20, who had been heckling the 187th Field Artillary regiment suddenly struck Alexander J. Taras, 33, a warrant officer on the head. Taras died later at Methodist hospital of skull injuries.

The assailant escaped when guardsmen who started to chase him were ordered back into ranks by an officer who was unaware of what had happened.

Guardsmen who marched near Taras said the youth had been following the parade for some distance before he finally got into an argument with Taras. They said Hart was the brother of a former member of the regiment.

Two Confess To Kidnap, Murder

LOCK HAVEN, PA. — (UP) — Two men confessed they kidnapped and killed a South Carolina taxicab driver and then went on a sightseeing trip with his body stuffed in the trunk of the cab, FBI agents said today.

The agents said the men admitted robbing and beating Robert D. Oliver, Myrtle Beach, S. C., last Monday. They shoved the unconscious Oliver in the trunk and then drove across the state line to Matthews, N. C. At Matthews, the confessions stated, they shot Oliver six times and stuffed his body back into the trunk.

In her second trial, Miss Coplon will be tried on three counts charging that she and Valentin Gubitchev conspired to transmit vital government documents to Russia. If convicted she faces a maximum sentence of 35 years in jail and fines totaling $25,000.

No Charges Filed

No charges were filed in the fight involving ten Mansfield boys near Lucas Wednesday morning Sheriff E. P. Long reported today. Long said none of the boys was injured. The altercation took place when four boys were attacked by six others who had followed them out of the city in a car. The sheriff talked to all of the youngsters and "straightened things out."

Rev. R. W. McNary, pastor of the Ontario Community Methodist church, and his family were honored at a farewell party given by members of the congregation and friends last night.

Rev. McNary has been appointed to the pastorate of Collinwood Methodist church, Cleveland, and he and his family are leaving for Cleveland this weekend.

A gift from the congregation was presented to Rev. McNary last night, and the pastor spoke briefly of what has been accomplished in the church during the four years he served as pastor.

A luncheon was served by the women of the church. Jay Rinehart and Vance Clever were in charge of arrangements for the party.

No Changes On Credits

Easing Not To Affect Mansfield

A survey of Mansfield Merchants indicates that credit terms will not be eased here despite the fact that Government controls on installment buying expired yesterday.

Government regulation "W" called for at least a 10 per cent down payment and a limit of 21 months to pay the balance. The survey of downtown stores indicates that merchants will continue to follow the regulations that had existed.

One chain store manager said, "The passing of regulations will necessitate no change as the controls we had been working under are very similar to the firm's credit policy before the regulations were imposed."

"We will continue to require the ten per cent minimum down payment and we will not stretch the installment payments over more than a 21 month period," said another credit manager.

At one store, officials stated they were controlled by the home office in Chicago, but have had no instructions to alter their credit policy as yet.

Many Mansfield stores which have followed a policy of allowing very little if any installment buying, declared that ending of instalment controls would not effect them.

The easing of credit restrictions will probably affect the used car field more than business stores inasmuch as the purchasing power of the public has gone into a gradual decline. Some auto dealers have hinted that lesser down payments and longer terms of payment are looming in the used car field.

CIO Memo Passed To Union Heads

Murray Warns Against Violence

PITTSBURGH —(UP)— CIO President Philip Murray has sent a "strike memo" to all officers of the United Steelworkers (CIO) and ordered them to prepare immediately for a possible mid-July strike against U. S. Steel corporation.

The memo revealed yesterday gave specific instructions in event of a strike and listed a series of "do's and don'ts" in regard to picketing, violence, contract extensions, timing, unemployment pay and bail bonds.

The instructions expressed "hope" that no walkout will occur in the steel mills. But it was made clear that a strike--perhaps a long and bitter one--is a real possibility unless some agreement is reached between the union and U. S. Steel by July 15 on union demands for higher wages, more insurance benefits and a pension plan.

Specific instructions in the memo were signed by USW General Counsel Arthur J. Goldberg and included in part:

Timing—don't jump the gun. Comply with the Taft-Hartley law.

Bail bond—set up local committees and arrange to post bail bond if any members are arrested. Make a list of members who own real estate. This is as good as cash for bail.

Extensions — don't sign any contract extensions for indefinite lengths of time This clouds the union's right to strike.

Picketing—the U. S. Constitution protects the right to picket, distribute leaflets and hold meetings. Local and state authorities can't legally interfere.

Violence—strictly illegal.

Willingness to bargain—under Taft-Hartley, it is unfair labor practice for either the union or company to refuse to bargain. The law, however, does't compel either party to agree.

Flays Cost Of Defense

FORT LEAVENWORTH, KANS — (INS) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley yesterday declared that a sound long-range defense policy for the United States "must cost much less than we are spending now."

The army chief of staff suggested costs may be reduced because of the Atlantic pact and because "the advantage has swung to our side; the aggressor, who was once a friend, is now on the defensive."

In a "hypothetical case," Bradley mentioned 12 billion dollars as a defense cost figure in 1953. President Truman budgeted current defense at 15 billions and the House raised this to 16 billion

Bradley addressed graduation exercises at the Command and General Staff school in Fort Leavenworth He said

"We cannot afford to spend more money than is absolutely essential on any one of the services merely to satisfy an emotional appeal.

"Every dollar spent must be strategically productive for either national bankruptcy or lack of preparedness will satisfy a lurking aggressor."

The chief of staff said the military forces must be capable of "keeping a toe hold on any continent which may ultimately become the battlefield."

MacArthur Claims U. S. Not In Birth Control Argument

TOKYO — (INS) — General Douglas MacArthur said yesterday that the allied occupation is not officially taking part in a current controversy over suggestions that the Japanese population be held down by means of birth control.

The American general, in a statement issued through the Allied Catholic Women's club of Tokyo, said the matter of birth control did not fall within the "prescribed scope of the occupation."

MacArthur referred directly to one of his civilian aides, Dr Warren S Thompson who had proposed that the Japanese population be 'controlled" to help the country's economy.

MacArthur's headquarters said the women's club was issuing the statement with the approval of the allied occupation chief. The statement said in part:

"In order to prevent any misunderstanding and eradicate any misconceptions, the supreme commander wishes it understood he is not engaged in any study or consideration of the problem of Japanese population control.

"Birth control, with its social, economic, and theological sides is in the final analysis for individual judgment and decision."

Last May 3, the Catholic Women's club had written a letter to MacArthur protesting against statements of Dr. Thompson who they said, was publicized in the Japanese press as a "population expert on MacArthur's staff."

Marshall Plan Nations Put OK Stamp On Trade Formula

PARIS — (INS) — Representatives of the Marshall plan nations met yesterday to put finishing touches on a new formula for European trade, which U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman said will stimulate commercial competition.

The delegates of the 19 nations drafted the plan at a meeting that broke up in the wee hours of the morning, ending a log-jam regarded as the Marshall plan's gravest crises.

The ministers of the participating nations will meet later to consider — and probably approve — the new formula.

The new compromise formula, which apparently soothed British fears of dollar losses and at the same time recognized the American desire for freer trade, was said to provide

1. — Twenty-five per cent of the credits granted to any one Marshall plan nation can be used in any of the other participating states.

2 — The remaining 75 per cent can be spent only in the country where it is made available.

Spokesmen emerging from the early morning conference, said that the agreement was "very complicated."

Claims Hunter Killed Youth

SPRINGFIELD — (INS) — Sheriff Arthur Shuman said today that John Calhoun, 24-year-old farmer, was undoubtedly killed by the rifle of a crow-shooting neighbor.

He said that ballistics tests at London prison farm showed that the rifle owned by Homer Ward of Clifton road, South Charleston, fired the shot that ended Calhoun's life while he was milking cows in his barn.

Coroner Austin Richards continues the inquest until later and gave no disposition because one witness did not appear.

Some of nature's creatures are bigger when young then as adults. The tadpole of an odd South American frog, notes the National Geographic Society, grows to be more than 10 inches long. It then starts shrinking, until it turns into a frog that is only two to two and a half inches long when fully adult.

Beggs Lashes 'Conspiracy'

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Lyall T. Beggs, national commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, last night lashed out at forces which he said wanted "to eliminate veterans hospitals and expose disabled veterans to a nationalized bureaucratic health program."

Speaking to the 29th annual Ohio V. F. W. convention in Cleveland, Beggs charged that an "antiveteran conspiracy" was being plotted in Washington by "social planners" who aimed to destroy veterans' benefits.

Beggs added that many top government officials had been "taken in" by shrewd tricks of these forces.

GIVES CONCERT

MILLERSBURG — The Bird's Farm Service here will have a band concert at its place of business by the Cal Beatty Rube Band, Saturday at 8 p m. The concert is open to the public.

MISS STATUE—During a contest judged by the Thousand Islands International Bridge authorities, attractive Martha Braun was chosen the "most statuesque" entrant. The bathing suit displayed by Martha at Alexandria Bay, N. Y., is made entirely of nylon.

The Roman citizen of the First Century A. D had about twice as much water delivered in the city for his use than had the citizen of Glasgow in 1928, according to one estimate.

Raid 'Tips' Force Suit

GARY, IND.. —(INS)—Four former Gary vice-squad members sought $40,000 damages in a suit yesterday against the leader of a women's campaign to drive organized vice and gambling from the city.

They charged Mrs. Ida K. Saks falsely accused them of tipping gamblers off to impending squad raids.

The four, each now assigned to regular police duties, asked $10,000 individual damages in the suit.

Mrs. Saks is leader of the Women's Citizens' committee. The four plaintiffs are Joseph Zimmerman, Robert Bard, Matthew Tetak and Michael Finnerty.

State Semi-Pro Champions Spilled By Taverns, 8 to 6

Tribe Keeps Pace With Yanks - 5½ Games Back

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

(News-Journal Sports Editor)

HORSE FANCIER Roscoe McGinty got a pleasant surprise over the week-end. . . . On a hunch he entered John Cook's 16-year-old Senator Dick in the Mahoning Saddle and Briddle club horse show near Youngstown. . . . Roscoe drove Senator Dick in the roadster class Friday and Saturday and came up with a third. . . . Then in the championship stake Monday, Senator Dick was named reserve champion . . . Roscoe had borrowed a set of silks for the showing. . . . The Mahoning show was the first time out for Senator Dick and now Roscoe has plenty of invitations to show the veteran horse at other shows.

★

THE CHARLES - WALCOTT "stinker" drew a total of $284,046 including the radio and television receipts. . . . At that the fight drew more than 16 of the 26 fights Joe Louis had in winning and retaining his heavyweight championship. . . . Earl Averill, former Cleveland gardener, is managing a semi-pro baseball team at Snohomish, Wash., which has won 18 of 19 games. . . . More than 45,000 students took part in competitive athletics in Western Conference schools during the 1948-49 season.

★

LARRY DOBY and Dale Mitchell patrol the garden side by side for the Cleveland Indians . . . But how different are their batting styles . . . Doby, who goes for distance all of the time, fanned 42 times in his first 222 times at the plate while Mitchell, the more consistent hitter, whiffed just three times in 240 times at bat . . . Wally Roettger, Illinois baseball coach, has just been named assistant director of athletics for the Illini . . . The Yanks have two of the smallest fellows in the majors in Yogi Berra and Phil Rizzuto . . . Yogi stands 5-8 and Rizzuto goes at 5-6 . . . The Notre Dame-Michigan State grid game at East Lansing Nov. 5 was a sell-out eight days after the tickets went on sale.

Sports Deadline

Deadline for sports copy for the July Fourth edition of The News-Journal will be 7:30 p. m. tomorrow. All box scores and game results must be in the hands of the N-J sports department by that time.

Penn Autos Give Up 5 In 1st Heat

Sent away to a seven-run lead in the first two innings, T. & E. Tavern gained a leg on the Mansfield baseball championship last evening by winning a surprise decision over Penn Auto-Sporting Goods, 8 to 6 at the Blue Goose field.

The Taverns swarmed all over the defending Ohio semi-pro champions in the first inning to run up the staggering total of five runs. Three singles, a walk, a pair of errors by Mike Gruber with Bardon's home run tossed in just about finished the Autos.

T. & E. clinched the game in the second without getting a safe hit. A walk, hit batsman, two wild pitches and a long fly accounted for the two tallies.

FIVE ERRORS HURT

A total of five errors hampered the Penn aggregation as Al Boyer, Tavern pitcher, gave up only seven hits. Penn collected two runs in the last of the sixth, added three in the sixth and Jim Guest accounted for the other tally in the fifth with a home run.

Ex-Madison pitchers, Ray Bader and Dick Poth, shared the mound chores for Penn Auto. They scattered eight hits.

The Autos have won six of 11 games while the Taverns are tied for the cellar in the Richland county league.

Tennis Meet Ends Today

LONDON —(AP)— The Wimbledon tennis championships wind up today with America already assured of four titles and favored to share in another.

Ted Schroeder, the come-from-behind specialist from La Crescenta, Calif., bagged the all-important men's singles crown yesterday in a nerve-tingling five-set battle with Europe's top player, Jaroslave Drobny of Czechoslovakia.

All-American finals are slated today in the women's singles, women's doubles and men's doubles, while one United States player is engaged in the mixed doubles final.

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Televising of the Ohio State university home football games this fall has been approved by the school's athletic board, a spokesman said today.

SCORES 12TH RUN—Vic Wertz, Detroit Tigers outfielder, slides safely into home plate in the 8th inning of game at Cleveland, Thursday. Wertz scored from second on Aaron Robinson's single to right field, beating Bob Kennedy's throw to Catcher Jim Hegan who dropped the ball (near foot, right) as he whirled to tag Wertz. The umpire is Art Passarella. Detroit defeated the Cleveland Indians 12 to 6. (AP Wirephoto.)

Legion Softballers Win Fourth Tilt In Row, 22-5

American Legion Post 16 unleashed a powerful 17-hit attack to romp over the Westinghouse Clerks, 22 to 5, in an International league slugfest at Liberty park last night.

Included in the devastating attack were six extra-base hits as Aid Geiger limited the Clerks to seven safeties. It was the fourth straight victory for the Legionnaires and kept them on top of the standings. Hooks homered for the winners.

Second-place American Veterans Committee kept pace with the Legion by winning its fifth game in six starts as last night's games ended the first round of action. AVC experienced little trouble in defeating the Westinghouse Engineers, 12 to 1, behind the six-hit pitching of Herr. AVC collected only 10 hits but profited by eight walks and five wild pitches.

BIG SIX RALLY

Two second division clubs hooked up in the third game and East Side Nite club nipped Tom's Restaurant, 9 to 7. Tom's moved into a 6-3 lead in the fourth inning but East Side cut loose for six big runs in the top of the fifth to cement the result. B. Earhart of Tom's hit a home run.

Top batting honors went to Fogle, Legion first sacker, who had "4 for 4." He had three doubles, a single and scored two runs.

Ed Waitkus Gets Final Operation

CHICAGO — (INS) — Eddie Waitkus, still bearing the bullet fired into him by a love-crazed girl, rested in Chicago's Billings hospital today following what surgeons called a "final" operation.

The Phillies' first baseman was in "fine" condition and recovering rapidly from the two-hour surgery designed to expand his left lung, partially collapsed by accumulated blood and tissue fluid from the wound.

Record Voting Picks Squads For Star Game

CHICAGO, Ill. — (AP) — Baseball's armchair strategists — a record 4,637,743 of them from all parts of the nation — have selected by remote control the starting lineups for the 16th annual all-star game in Brooklyn's Ebbets field July 12.

Fans voting in the 20-day poll chose these players for the two rival managers, Cleveland's Lou Boudreau of the American league and Boston's Billy Southworth of the National:

2 Mansfielders Among 71 Ohioans At Camp Mowana

Young People Learn Christian Service

By EILEEN DEWHURST

Seventy-one boys from all over the state, including two from Mansfield, are learning the fundamentals of Christian service this week at Camp Mowana, Lutheran youth camp on Fleming Falls road.

The two Mansfielders are Donald Zerbach, 500 Park avenue west, from the First Lutheran church; and Ronald Sherrer, 206 South Main street, from St. Mark's Lutheran church.

The camp opened June 19 and sessions will continue for an 11-week period, ending Sept. 3. The first four weeks boys from ages 9 to 14 will attend sessions at the camp. This week's group ranged in age from 12 to 14.

Beginning July 17, girls from 9 to 14 will take over the camp for a five-week period. The last two weeks of the camping season, the camp will be occupied by a mixed group of young people, 15 years old or older.

According to Rev. James L. Keyser, director of Christian Education for Youth for the Synod of Ohio and director of the camp, the courses are designed to prepare young people for Christian service.

In addition to the religious training, a recreational program; including swimming in the camp's new pool is offered at the 28-acre camp. However, Rev. Keyser emphasized the principal purpose of the camp is to train young people to serve in the church later.

This year marks the ninth annual season for the Lutheran camp Last year a total of 490 boys and girls attended summer sessions This year more than 600 already have registered to attend the camp.

This week Rev Atsumi Taskaka, a native Japanese pastor from Fukuoka, Japan, is teaching a course at the camp. In addition to giving the boys a background in the history of Christianity in Japan, he is teaching them some of the Japanese language and songs

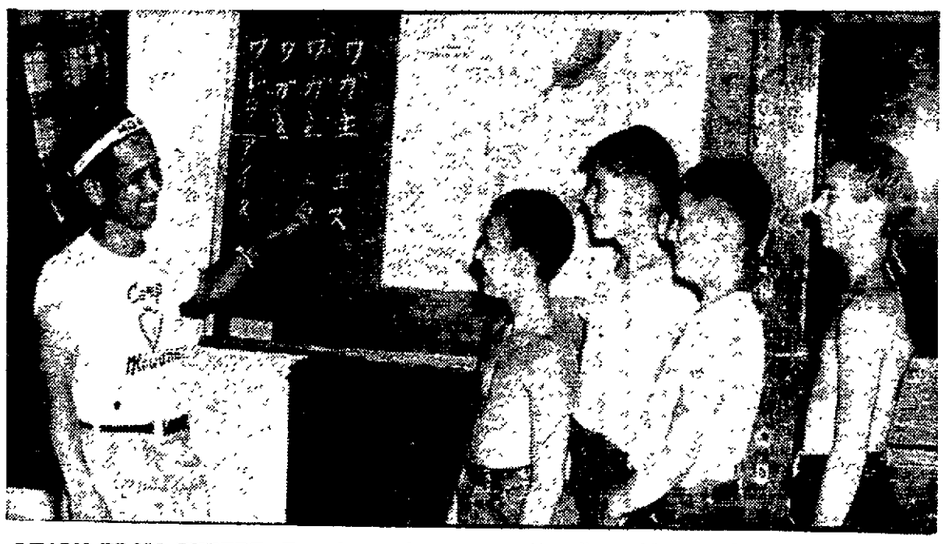
The camp, although only a short distance from the city, is away from the main highway and comparatively isolated from the hustle and bustle of city life. A small stream runs through the hilly, wooded area with small bridges spanning the stream and steep wooden steps leading up the sides of the hills.

Classes are held in the large main lodge which serves the dual purpose of a dining room. Scattered among the hills, out of sight from the main building, are eight smaller cabins in which the campers are quartered.

One councilor is assigned to each cabin and these councilors also serve as instructors. In addition to the councilors, there are a life guard and handicraft instructor.

Miss Ruth Renz, of Greenville, will supervise the girls during their session at the camp.

Rev. John Gensel, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran church is a member of the camp committee. John Linsenmayer is treasurer, and food for the summer camp is purchased by Mrs. Linsenmayer.



LEARN FROM EXPERT—Four boys who are attending Camp Mowana, Lutheran Youth camp on Fleming Falls road, this week, watch Rev. Atsumi Taska, native Japanese pastor, as he points to the words of a Japanese song which he has written on the blackboard. Left to right, are Rev Taska; Joseph Steininger of Tiffin; Donald Zehrbach, 500 Park avenue west; Carl Brodbeck of Toledo; and Ronald Sherrer, 206 South Main street.

2 Re-assigned Methodists Preach In City Tomorrow

Tomorrow morning two Mansfield pastors will be delivering their first sermons since they were returned to their pastorates at the final session of the Northeast Ohio conference of the Methodist church at Lakeside Monday.

Both Rev. Charles W. Stoneburner, pastor of the First Methodist church, and Rev. J. Frank Stewart, pastor of the Central Methodist church, were returned to their posts here.

Rev. Stoneburner will be beginning his fourth year as pastor of the First Methodist church. He came to his pastorate here in August 1946, after many years of service at the Youngstown Epworth church. He also was pastor of churches in Cleveland and Alliance.

Rev Stoneburner served as president of the Richland County Ministerial association and as chairman of a project to coordinate all religious work in Richland county last year.

Rev. Stewart's return to his church here will mark the beginning of his seventh year as pastor of the Central Methodist church. He became pastor of the church in July, 1943, coming to Mansfield from the First Methodist church in Uhrichsville.

Rev. Stewart also served as president of the Richland County Ministerial association, and has been active in civic and religious affairs.

Disabled Vets Work to Aid Other Handicapped Victims

CHICAGO — (UP) — A group of disabled veterans here, understanding what it's like to be handicapped, are busy fashioning artificial limbs for persons crippled at birth or by disease.

They study under the GI rights bill in the city's only school of its kind, the Chicago School of Plastic Surgical Prosthetics, incorporated not-for-profit several years ago.

The veterans learn how to blend sculpturing, modeling and casting to make replacements for facial and body parts. They make life-like noses, eyes, ears, breasts, cheeks, mouths, hair scalps, hands or portions of a hand, and metal skull plates which brain surgeons use for persons with skull defects.

The hands are soft, skin-like, with cuticle, fingernails and imbedded hairs. Ears can be bent forward and released to spring back into place. They have moulded elastic calves to restore contours to legs of polio victims.

Fourteen veterans turn out as many as 100 facial and limb replacements a day. They serve many charity patients because they feel their products should be within reach of anybody.

When a patient comes in, photographs and color charts are made and a synthetic material chosen to match his skin. Once the original mould is made, replacements are easy to make, the veterans say. The average one lasts 10 or 12 months.

The biggest headache, according to the school's director, is summer's tan. If a farmer gets a nose or cheek replacement, it will not tan like the rest of his face. So, some order a winter nose and a summer nose.

Unfortunately, nothing has yet been devised to make prosthetic ears turn red in winter, as a normal ear does, the official said. However, researchers are reporting on new lacquers, tints and dyes which might prove superior to those now used.
